

METROLINK - CROSS COUNTY EXTENSION

The Cross County extension of the MetroLink transit system connects communities by adding 8-miles to the existing rail system, which currently spans the 38-miles from Scott Air Force Base in Illinois to Lambert-St. Louis International Airport in Saint Louis, Missouri. The extension includes a major reconstruction of the Forest Park station and the addition of nine new stations. Approximately 22 new light rail vehicles will be needed to carry the additional 18,000 daily riders.

KWAME was responsible for providing estimating, scheduling, document control, cost control and invoicing services. In addition, value engineering, constructibility reviews, and the coordination, site administration and mobilization for the project.
